The Happy Prince (A2) · Oscar Wilde

High above the city, on a tall column, stood the statue of the Happy Prince. He was covered all over with thin leaves of fine gold, his eyes were made of two bright sapphires, and a great red ruby glowed on his sword-handle.

He was very much admired indeed. "He is as beautiful as a weathercock," said one of the Town Councillors who wished to gain a reputation for having artistic tastes. "Only not quite so useful," he added, afraid that people would think him unpractical, which he really was not.

"Why can't you be like the Happy Prince?" asked a sensible mother of her little boy who was crying for the moon. "The Happy Prince never dreams of crying for anything," she said.

One night there flew over the city a little Swallow. His friends had gone away to Egypt six weeks before, but he had stayed behind. He was in love with the most beautiful Reed. He had met her early in the spring as he was flying down the river after a big yellow moth.

The Selfish Giant (A2) · Oscar Wilde

Every afternoon, as they were coming from school, the children used to go and play in the Giant's garden. It was a large lovely garden, with soft green grass. Here and there over the grass stood beautiful flowers like stars, and there were twelve peach-trees that in the spring-time broke out into delicate blossoms of pink and pearl.

The Giant had been away for seven years. He had gone to visit his friend the Cornish ogre, and had stayed with him. When he returned, he saw the children playing in the garden. "What are you doing here?" he cried in a very gruff voice, and the children ran away.

"My own garden is my own garden," said the Giant, "anyone can understand that, and I will allow nobody to play in it but myself." So he built a high wall all round it, and put up a notice-board: TRESPASSERS WILL BE PROSECUTED.

The Gift of the Magi (B1) · O. Henry

One dollar and eighty-seven cents. That was all. And sixty cents of it was in pennies. Pennies saved one and two at a time by negotiating with the grocery store owner and the vegetable seller until one's cheeks burned with silent humiliation.

Della counted three times. One dollar and eighty-seven cents. And the next day would be Christmas.

There was clearly nothing to do but sit on the old couch and cry. So Della did it.

While the mistress of the home is slowly becoming less upset, let's look at the home. A furnished flat at eight dollars a week. It did not exactly beggar description, but it certainly had that word on the lookout for the mendicancy squad.

In the lobby below was a letter-box into which no letter would go, and an electric button from which no mortal finger could coax a ring. Also there was a card bearing the name "Mr. James Dillingham Young."

Della finished her cry and went to work on her cheeks with the powder rag. She stood by the window and looked out at a grey cat walking along a grey fence in a grey backyard. Tomorrow would be Christmas Day, and she had only one dollar and eighty-seven cents to buy Jim a present.

The Necklace (B1) · Guy de Maupassant

She was one of those pretty and charming girls, born into a family of clerks, with no money and no prospects. She had no means of meeting some rich and distinguished man, so she let herself be married to a minor official at the Ministry of Education.

She suffered endlessly, feeling that she was made for luxury and comfort. She suffered from the poverty of her apartment, from the shabby walls, the worn chairs, and the faded curtains. All these things, which another woman of her class would not even have noticed, tormented and insulted her.

When she sat down to dinner, opposite her husband, who uncovered the soup tureen and declared enthusiastically, "Ah, good old beef stew! I don't know anything better than that," she dreamed of elegant dinners, of gleaming silverware, of tapestries depicting ancient figures and exotic birds in an enchanted forest.

She had no dresses, no jewels, nothing. And she loved nothing but these things; she felt made for them. She burned with the desire to please, to be attractive, to be sought after.

The Tell-Tale Heart (B2) · Edgar Allan Poe

True! Nervous, very, very dreadfully nervous I had been and am; but why will you say that I am mad? The disease had sharpened my senses, not destroyed, not dulled them. Above all was the sense of hearing acute. I heard all things in the heaven and in the earth. I heard many things in hell. How, then, am I mad? Hearken! and observe how healthily, how calmly I can tell you the whole story.

It is impossible to say how first the idea entered my brain; but once conceived, it haunted me day and night. Object there was none. Passion there was none. I loved the old man. He had never wronged me. He had never given me insult. For his gold I had no desire. I think it was his eye! Yes, it was this! One of his eyes resembled that of a vulture — a pale blue eye, with a film over it. Whenever it fell upon me, my blood ran cold; and so by degrees, very gradually, I made up my mind to take the life of the old man, and thus rid myself of the eye forever.

A Study in Scarlet (B2) · Arthur Conan Doyle

In the year 1878 I took my degree of Doctor of Medicine of the University of London, and proceeded to Netley to go through the course prescribed for surgeons in the army. Having completed my studies there, I was duly attached to the Fifth Northumberland Fusiliers as Assistant Surgeon.

We proceeded to India by the troopship Orontes, where I underwent a series of adventures which left me with a constitution much shaken. I was struck on the shoulder by a Jezail bullet, which shattered the bone and grazed the subclavian artery. Had it not been for the promptitude and skill of my orderly, James Murray, who half carried, half supported me under fire to a place of safety, I should certainly have died.

I was removed from the regiment and conveyed back to England. For months my life was despaired of, and when at last I came to myself and became convalescent, I was so weak and emaciated that a medical board determined that not a day should be lost in sending me back to England. I came to London with the weak remnant of a once robust constitution.

Un matí al barri (A2) · Babelito

Cada matí em desperto al mateix moment. Primer vaig al balcó i miro la Sagrada Família que es veu entre els edificis. Després descendo a la cuina i preparo el café. M'agrada molt amb llet calenta, especial si és un dia de fred.

La meva rutina és sempre igual. A les set de la matinada, surt de casa. Camino per la Rambla, on vull salons i gent tocant música. Compro un periòdic al quiosc de la cantonada i em sento en una terrassa a llegir i beure un altre café.

Vaig al treball a peu, una caminada de vint minuts pel barri gòtic. Els carrers són estrets i plens de vida. Hi ha cases velles, balconades de fusta i flors per les finestres. Els veïns me saluden —aquí tothom es coneix— i jo els saludo amb un somriure.

L'hora més bonica és quan torna la llum del matí i els carres que són esbotzats ja prenen color. Barcelona em sembla una ciutat mágica, plena de secrets esperant que algú els descobreixi.

La festa major del barri (A2) · Babelito

La festa major arriba sempre la primera setmana d'agost. El barri es transforma. Pengen banderoles de colors entre els edificis, posen escenaris a la plaça i instal·len jocs per als nens.

Tot el barri col·labora. Els veïns coquen coca de recapte i pa amb tomaquet. A la plaça hi ha xeremies, sardanes, i fins i tot gresca. Els nens corren pels carrers disfressats de gegants i els adults beuen vermouth mentre escolten música.

La meva part favorita és la nit de la pólvora: a la plaça es cremen els pólvores i el cel s'il·lumina de colors. Tothom canta, dansa i celebra. Fins i tot els més grans del barri es posen a ballar!

Aquella nit no durmo. Resta'd'una que la festa major uneix els veïns, crea memòries i fa que la ciutat sigui un lloc especial per viure.

Una tarda al mercat de la Boqueria (B1) · Babelito

El mercat de la Boqueria és un lloc que no pots explicar bé només amb paraules. Cal veure-ho amb els teus propis ulls. Cada tarda, després de les dues, hi ha un bullici especial: les parades buiden i es preparen per a la nit.

Els venedors són amables i parladors. Si demanes tomàquets, t'expliquen si són de la comarca o de l'Empordà, i et donen consells de com cuinar-los. Els peixatans tallen peix a velocitat de vertig, mentre que els fruiters tracten la fruita com si fos or.

Vaig a comprar una mica de tot. Una verdura nova que no reconec, uns bolets de tardor, uns formatges de la Serra de Collserola. Cada compra és una petita aventura. A la barra del fons, beu gent que menja una cervesa freda i uns escopinyes crus: la vida Barcelona en la seva expressió més pura.

El mercat no és només un lloc per comprar; és un microcosm de la vida barcelonina. Aquí pots sentir el pols de la ciutat, conèixer els seus secrets culinaris i entendre per què els barcelonins som tant orgullosos de la nostra cultura gastronòmica.

Pujada a Montjuïc (B1) · Babelito

Dissabte vaig decidir pujar a Montjuïc sense pressa, sense pla prefixat. Vaig triar el camí pels jardins, no la tirolina com fan els turistes. Els jardins de Montjuïc són secrets ben guardats pels barcelonins.

Camino entre plantes exòtiques i flors que no sé ni com es diuen. Els jardins s'eleven per terrasses i cada vegada que puj, descobreixo una perspectiva nova de la ciutat. A baix, Barcelona s'estén com un mapa viu.

Al capdamunt trobo el castell, aquest edifici que ha vist guerres i revolucions, que ha canviat de mans més vegades que les maons a la ciutat. Avui és un museu, però els murs semblen guardar encara historis d'antics tants.

Mentre baix, el sol comença a canviar de colors. Els taronja i vermells il·luminen els edificis moderns de la base de la muntanya. Des de dalt, vull que Barcelona és antiga i jove alhora, tradicional i ultramoderna. Montjuïc és el millor mirador per comprendre aquesta contradicció.

Els castellers: patrimoni viu de Catalunya (B2) · Babelito

Els castellers representen quelcom profund en la identitat catalana, una pràctica que combina força, confiança, disciplina i comunitat. Els castells són torres humanes que es basteixen durant festes majors, i la seva construcció és un art que ha pervivut durant segles.

La complexitat dels castells va molt més enllà del que sembla a primera vista. Centenars de persones s'entrellacen en formacions precises, amb rols específics: els baixos que suporten el pes, els aixafadors que asseguren l'estructura, i els xiquets més petits que pujant al capdamunt. Cada pessoa té responsabilitat cap als altres.

Quan un castell "cau" —és a dir, quan la torre es desploma de manera controlada—, no hi ha vergonya, sinó celebració. El fracàs és part del procés. Els castellers riuen, es polsen l'un a l'altre i comencen de nou. Aquesta resiliència exemplifica la filosofia catalana moderna.

El 2010, la UNESCO va reconèixer els castells com Patrimoni Cultural Immaterial de la Humanitat. Avui en dia, nens i nenes de tota Catalunya practiquen aquesta tradició. És una manera de connectar amb les arrels mentre se segueix creixent com a persona i comunitat. Els castellers no són només un espectacle; són una metàfora de vida.

Gaudí: el geni que va transformar Barcelona (B2) · Babelito

Antoni Gaudí (1852-1926) va ser més que un arquitecte; va ser un visionari que va canviar per sempre la manera com viem l'arquitectura. Els seus edificis no segueixen les normes dels seus contemporanis, sinó que semblen organismes vius, amb formes organiques i simètriques que reflecteixen la natura.

La Sagrada Família és la seva obra mestra inacabada. Per a molts, rappresenta l'essència de Barcelona: ambiciosa, imperfecta però grandiosa. Cada façana conta una historia diferent, cada detall és pensament. Gaudí passà els últims anys de la seva vida dedicat totalment a aquest projecte, dormint a les obres.

Però Gaudí no és només la Sagrada Família. La Casa Batlló és una casa que sembla respirar, amb façana ondulada com ones de mar. El Parc Güell transforma una muntanya en una fantasía de colors i ceràmica. Fins i tot els seus edificis menys famosos, com la Casa Vicens o la Casa Calvet, són revolucionaris.

L'herència de Gaudí va molt més enllà de les estructures físiques. Va demostrar que l'arquitectura pot ser poesia, que les matemàtiques naturals es peuvent traduir en bellesa. Més de cent anys després de la seva mort, Barcelona continua atraient milions de persones que venen a sentir la magic de les seves creacions.

Test de nivel (diagnóstico)

Pantalla: `/diagnostic`. Archivos: `src/lib/diagnosticQuestions.ts`, `src/lib/oralDiagnostic.ts`, `src/pages/Diagnostic.tsx`.

Cómo decide el nivel

1. Parte escrita — preguntas de opción múltiple ordenadas de A1 a C1 (5 por nivel). Al cerrar un nivel con menos de 60 % de aciertos, el test se corta. El nivel es el más alto sostenido antes del corte.
2. Segunda oportunidad — si un nivel queda justo en 2 de 5, se hacen 3 preguntas de desempate del mismo nivel y se decide con las 8 (hace falta 5 de 8). No se activa si la persona respondió "I don't know" 3 veces o más.
3. Parte oral (si hay micrófono y no es principiante) — lectura en voz alta de 3 frases y una pregunta abierta. La lectura se puntúa por palabras acertadas; la respuesta abierta la evalúa el coach.
4. Combinación — el nivel escrito es el ancla; lo oral lo mueve como máximo un escalón.

Gramática (12 lecciones)

Pantalla: `/grammar`. Archivo: `src/lib/grammarLessons.ts`. Lecciones cortas en español ligadas a los tipos de error que detecta el coach.

Always say the subject (A1)

En inglés casi todas las frases llevan sujeto, incluso cuando en español lo omitimos.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: omitting_subject.

El sujeto no se omite

En español decimos “Es importante” o “Llueve”. En inglés hace falta un sujeto: usa it, there o el pronombre que corresponda.

- It is important. — Es importante.
- It rains a lot here. — Llueve mucho aquí.
- He works in a bank. — Trabaja en un banco.

There is / There are para “hay”

Para decir que algo existe o está presente usa there is (singular) o there are (plural).

- There is a café near here. — Hay un café cerca de aquí.
- There are two bedrooms. — Hay dos habitaciones.

Errores típicos

- ✗ Is possible to pay by card. → ✓ It is possible to pay by card.. Falta el sujeto “it”.
- ✗ Is a nice city. → ✓ It is a nice city.. El verbo “is” necesita sujeto.
- ✗ Have two bedrooms. → ✓ There are two bedrooms.. Para “hay” se usa there is / there are.

Quiz

- ¿Cuál es correcta para “Es muy tarde”?
  - ✓ It is very late.
  - ✗ Is very late.
  - ✗ Very late is.
- ¿Cuál es correcta para “Hay una farmacia aquí cerca”?
  - ✓ There is a pharmacy near here.
  - ✗ Has a pharmacy near here.
  - ✗ Is a pharmacy near here.
- ¿Cuál es correcta para “Llueve mucho”?
  - ✓ It rains a lot.
  - ✗ Rains a lot.
  - ✗ Is raining a lot it.
- ¿Cuál es correcta para “Trabaja los sábados”?
  - ✓ She works on Saturdays.
  - ✗ Works on Saturdays.
  - ✗ Is work on Saturdays.

want / need / like + to + verb (A1)

Tras want, need, would like, hope, decide… el verbo siguiente lleva “to”.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: missing_to.

Verbo + to + infinitivo

Después de want, need, would like, hope, plan, decide y try, el segundo verbo va con “to”.

- I want to learn English. — Quiero aprender inglés.
- She needs to leave early. — Ella necesita irse temprano.
- We decided to stay home. — Decidimos quedarnos en casa.

Con can, must, should NO va “to”

Los verbos modales (can, could, must, should, will) van seguidos del verbo sin “to”.

- I can swim. — Sé nadar.
- You should rest. — Deberías descansar.

Errores típicos

- ✗ I need learn more words. → ✓ I need to learn more words.. need + to + verbo.
- ✗ I want go home. → ✓ I want to go home.. want + to + verbo.
- ✗ I can to swim. → ✓ I can swim.. Tras “can” no se usa “to”.

Quiz

- “Quiero comprar un billete.”
  - ✓ I want to buy a ticket.
  - ✗ I want buy a ticket.
  - ✗ I want buying a ticket.
- “Necesito hablar contigo.”
  - ✓ I need to talk to you.
  - ✗ I need talk to you.
  - ✗ I need to talking you.
- “Puedes entrar.”
  - ✓ You can come in.
  - ✗ You can to come in.
  - ✗ You can coming in.
- “Esperamos verte pronto.”
  - ✓ We hope to see you soon.
  - ✗ We hope see you soon.
  - ✗ We hope seeing you soon.

Verbs with prepositions (A2)

Muchos verbos van con una preposición fija que no siempre coincide con el español.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: missing_to_listen, preposition.

listen to, look at, wait for

En español “escuchar música” y “esperar el autobús” no llevan preposición. En inglés sí: listen to, wait for, look at, look for.

- I listen to music every day. — Escucho música todos los días.
- We are waiting for the bus. — Estamos esperando el autobús.
- Look at this photo. — Mira esta foto.
- I'm looking for my keys. — Estoy buscando mis llaves.

Otros que conviene memorizar depend on (depender de), arrive in/at (llegar a), think about (pensar en), talk to (hablar con), agree with (estar de acuerdo con).

- It depends on the weather. — Depende del tiempo.
- We arrived in Madrid at noon. — Llegamos a Madrid al mediodía.
- I agree with you. — Estoy de acuerdo contigo.

Errores típicos

- ✗ I listen music. → ✓ I listen to music.. listen siempre va con “to”.
- ✗ I'm waiting the bus. → ✓ I'm waiting for the bus.. wait + for.
- ✗ I'm agree with you. → ✓ I agree with you.. agree es un verbo; no se usa “be”.

  - ✗ It depends of you.
  - ✗ It depends you.
- “Estoy de acuerdo.”
  - ✓ I agree.
  - ✗ I am agree.
  - ✗ I have agree.

Adjectives never take -s (A1)

El adjetivo en inglés no cambia con el plural ni con el género, y va antes del sustantivo.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: adjective_plural.

Sin plural, sin género

Solo el sustantivo se pluraliza. El adjetivo se queda igual: a big house, two big houses.

- They are tall students. — Son estudiantes altos.

- She has green eyes. — Ella tiene ojos verdes.

Antes del sustantivo

El adjetivo va antes del sustantivo (al revés que en español): a red car, un coche rojo.

- I live in a small flat. — Vivo en un piso pequeño.
- We saw an interesting film. — Vimos una película interesante.

Errores típicos

- ✗ They are differents. → ✓ They are different.. Los adjetivos no llevan -s.
- ✗ I have a car red. → ✓ I have a red car.. El adjetivo va antes del sustantivo.
- ✗ Two importants things. → ✓ Two important things.. important no se pluraliza.

  - ✗ A bigs house.
- "Dos problemas importantes."
  - ✓ Two important problems.
  - ✗ Two importants problems.
  - ✗ Two problems importants.

False friends (falsos amigos) (A2)

Palabras que se parecen al español pero significan otra cosa.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: false_friend.

Los más traicioneros

Estas palabras parecen españolas, pero no lo son.

- actually = en realidad (no "actualmente": currently) — Actually, I prefer tea. / Currently, I live in Madrid.
- embarrassed = avergonzado (no "embarazada": pregnant) — I was embarrassed. / She is pregnant.
- library = biblioteca (no "librería": bookshop) — I borrow books from the library.
- sensible = sensato (no "sensible": sensitive) — That is a sensible idea.
- assist = ayudar (no "asistir a": attend) — I attend classes on Monday.
- realise = darse cuenta (no "realizar": carry out) — I realised my mistake.

Errores típicos

- ✗ Actually I live in Madrid. → ✓ Currently I live in Madrid.. "Actually" significa "en realidad".
- ✗ I was very embarrassed (para decir "embarazada"). → ✓ She is pregnant.. embarrassed = avergonzado.

- ✗ I assist the English class. → ✓ I attend the English class.. assist = ayudar.

- "Me dio vergüenza."
  - ✓ I was embarrassed.
  - ✗ I was embarrased pregnant.
  - ✗ I felt embarazada.

have, take, make, do (A2)

Cuatro verbos muy comunes que forman expresiones fijas.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: meal_verb.

have para comidas

Las comidas y bebidas se "tienen": have breakfast, have lunch, have a coffee.

- I have breakfast at eight. — Desayuno a las ocho.
- Let's have a coffee. — Tomemos un café.

take, make y do

take a shower / a photo / a break; make a decision / a mistake / a plan; do homework / the dishes / a job.

- I take a shower every morning. — Me ducho cada mañana.
- She made a mistake. — Ella cometió un error.
- He does his homework after school. — Hace los deberes después de clase.

Errores típicos

- ✗ I make breakfast at eight. → ✓ I have breakfast at eight.. Para tomar una comida se usa have (make = prepararla).
- ✗ I do a lot of mistakes. → ✓ I make a lot of mistakes.. mistake va con make.
- ✗ I make my homework. → ✓ I do my homework.. homework va con do.

Quiz

- "Cometí un error."

- “Voy a darme una ducha.”
  - ✓ I'm going to take a shower.
  - ✗ I'm going to make a shower.
  - ✗ I'm going to do a shower.

Word order in statements & questions (A2)

El orden en inglés es fijo: sujeto + verbo + objeto, y las preguntas usan un auxiliar.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: word_order.

Afirmaciones: sujeto + verbo + objeto

No se puede mover el sujeto al final como en español (“Llegó Ana”).

- Ana arrived late. — Llegó Ana tarde.
- I like this city a lot. — Me gusta mucho esta ciudad.

Preguntas: palabra interrogativa + auxiliar + sujeto + verbo

En las preguntas hace falta do/does/did (o be/can/will) antes del sujeto.

- Where do you live? — ¿Dónde vives?
- What time does the train leave? — ¿A qué hora sale el tren?
- Can you help me? — ¿Puedes ayudarme?

Errores típicos

- ✗ Where you live? → ✓ Where do you live?. Falta el auxiliar do.
- ✗ Arrived Ana late. → ✓ Ana arrived late.. El sujeto va primero.
- ✗ What means this word? → ✓ What does this word mean?. Auxiliar + sujeto + verbo.

Quiz

- “¿Dónde trabajas?”
  - ✓ Where do you work?
  - ✗ Where you work?
  - ✗ Where work you?
- “¿Qué significa esta palabra?”
  - ✓ What does this word mean?
  - ✗ What means this word?
  - ✗ What this word means?

  - ✗ What time the film starts?

- “Me encanta la comida italiana.”
  - ✓ I love Italian food.
  - ✗ I love food Italian.
  - ✗ Love I Italian food.

Past simple (A2)

Para acciones terminadas en un momento del pasado: -ed en los regulares y formas propias en los irregulares.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: verb_tense.

Verbos regulares: -ed

Añade -ed: work → worked, visit → visited. En negativas y preguntas se usa did + verbo base.

- I visited my aunt yesterday. — Visité a mi tía ayer.
- Did you work last Sunday? — ¿Trabajaste el domingo pasado?
- She didn't call me. — Ella no me llamó.

Irregulares frecuentes go → went, have → had, see → saw, eat → ate, buy → bought, make → made, take → took.

- Last weekend I went to the beach. — El fin de semana pasado fui a la playa.
- We ate pizza. — Comimos pizza.

Errores típicos

- ✗ Yesterday I go to the cinema. → ✓ Yesterday I went to the cinema.. Con “yesterday” va el pasado.
- ✗ We eated pizza. → ✓ We ate pizza.. eat es irregular: ate.
- ✗ Did you went there? → ✓ Did you go there?. Tras did va el verbo base.

Quiz

- “Ayer compré un abrigo.”
  - ✓ Yesterday I bought a coat.
  - ✗ Yesterday I buyed a coat.

  - ✗ I no went to work.
- “Cenamos tarde.”
  - ✓ We had dinner late.
  - ✗ We have dinner late yesterday.
  - ✗ We haved dinner late.

Present perfect vs past simple (B1)

Present perfect para experiencias y situaciones que conectan con el presente; past simple para un momento concreto.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: verb_tense.

have/has + participio

Úsalo para experiencias (ever, never), cambios recientes y cosas que duran hasta ahora (for, since).

- I have been to London twice. — He estado en Londres dos veces.
- She has lived here for five years. — Ella vive aquí desde hace cinco años.
- Have you ever tried sushi? — ¿Alguna vez has probado el sushi?

Con un momento concreto, past simple

Si dices cuándo ocurrió (yesterday, last week, in 2020), usa past simple.

- I went to London last year. — Fui a Londres el año pasado.
- We met in 2019. — Nos conocimos en 2019.

Errores típicos

- ✗ I live here since 2020. → ✓ I have lived here since 2020.. since/for + situación que continúa: present perfect.
- ✗ I have seen him yesterday. → ✓ I saw him yesterday.. Con "yesterday" se usa past simple.
- ✗ Did you ever go to Italy? → ✓ Have you ever been to Italy?. Experiencias de vida: present perfect.

Quiz

- "Vivo aquí desde 2018."
  - ✓ I have lived here since 2018.
  - ✗ I live here since 2018.
  - ✗ I am living here since 2018.

  - ✓ I saw him yesterday.
  - ✗ I have seen him yesterday.
  - ✗ I have saw him yesterday.
- "¿Has estado alguna vez en Roma?"
  - ✓ Have you ever been to Rome?
  - ✗ Did you ever be to Rome?
  - ✗ Are you ever been to Rome?
- "No he terminado todavía."
  - ✓ I haven't finished yet.
  - ✗ I didn't finished yet.
  - ✗ I don't have finished yet.

in / on / at (time and place) (A2)

Tres preposiciones, una lógica: de lo más amplio (in) a lo más puntual (at).

Ayuda a corregir los errores: preposition.

Tiempo

in + meses, años, estaciones, partes del día (in May, in 2024, in the morning). on + días y fechas (on Monday, on 5 May). at + horas y momentos (at 7 o'clock, at night, at the weekend en inglés británico).

- My birthday is in May. — Mi cumpleaños es en mayo.
- The meeting is on Monday. — La reunión es el lunes.

- I wake up at seven. — Me despierto a las siete.

Lugar

in + espacios cerrados o ciudades (in the room, in Madrid). on + superficies (on the table). at + puntos concretos (at the station, at home, at work).

- She lives in Valencia. — Vive en Valencia.
- Your phone is on the table. — Tu móvil está sobre la mesa.
- I'll wait for you at the station. — Te espero en la estación.

Errores típicos

- ✗ I'll see you in Monday. → ✓ I'll see you on Monday.. Los días llevan on.

  - ✗ I'm on home.
- "La clase empieza a las nueve."
  - ✓ The class starts at nine.
  - ✗ The class starts in nine.
  - ✗ The class starts on nine.

a / an / the / no article (A2)

Cuándo usar a/an, cuándo the y cuándo ningún artículo.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: article.

a / an: algo nuevo o uno cualquiera

Usa a antes de sonido consonante y an antes de sonido vocal. Presenta algo por primera vez o habla de un ejemplo cualquiera.

- I have a dog and an umbrella. — Tengo un perro y un paraguas.
- She is an engineer. — Ella es ingeniera.

the: algo ya conocido o único

Usa the cuando quien escucha sabe de qué hablas, o es único (the sun, the Internet).

- I saw a film. The film was great. — Vi una película. La película fue genial.

- Close the door, please. — Cierra la puerta, por favor.

Sin artículo

No se usa artículo para hablar en general en plural o incontables (I love music), ni con la mayoría de ciudades y países.

- I love music. — Me encanta la música.
- Life is beautiful. — La vida es bella.
- I live in Spain. — Vivo en España.

Errores típicos

- ✗ I love the music. → ✓ I love music.. En general no lleva artículo.
- ✗ She is teacher. → ✓ She is a teacher.. Las profesiones llevan a/an.
- ✗ I have an umbrella of black. → ✓ I have a black umbrella.. Antes de “black” suena consonante: a.

Quiz

- “Soy médico.”
  - ✓ I'm a doctor.
  - ✗ I'm doctor.
  - ✗ I'm the doctor.
- “Me gusta el café.” (en general)
  - ✓ I like coffee.

  - ✗ I need a umbrella.
  - ✗ I need umbrella.
- “Cierra la ventana.”
  - ✓ Close the window.
  - ✗ Close window.
  - ✗ Close a window.

can, could, should, must (B1)

Los verbos modales: habilidad, permiso, consejo y obligación. Siempre seguidos del verbo base.

Ayuda a corregir los errores: verb_tense, missing_to.

Qué expresa cada uno

can/could = habilidad o permiso (could es más cortés); should = consejo; must = obligación fuerte; have to = obligación externa.

- Could you open the window? — ¿Podrías abrir la ventana?
- You should see a doctor. — Deberías ir al médico.
- You must wear a seatbelt. — Debes llevar el cinturón.

Sin -s, sin to

Los modales no añaden -s en he/she/it y van seguidos del verbo base sin “to”.

- She can speak three languages. — Ella sabe hablar tres idiomas.
- He should study more. — Él debería estudiar más.

Errores típicos

- ✗ She cans swim. → ✓ She can swim.. Los modales no llevan -s.
- ✗ You should to rest. → ✓ You should rest.. Tras should no va “to”.
- ✗ Can you to help me? → ✓ Can you help me?. Tras can no va “to”.

Sonidos y escucha

Sonidos del inglés (`/sounds`, 12)

/θ/ · th suave (think) (Como en 'think', 'three', 'bath')

Saca la punta de la lengua entre los dientes superiores e inferiores y sopla suave, sin activar la voz.

Ejemplos: think, three, bath. Pares mínimos: think / sink · three / free · bath / bass. Frase para repetir: "I think three is the right number."

/ð/ · th sonoro (this) (Como en 'this', 'that', 'the')

Igual que /θ/ pero con voz: lengua entre los dientes y haces vibrar las cuerdas vocales.

Ejemplos: this, that, breathe. Pares mínimos: this / dis · breathe / breed · that / dat. Frase para repetir: "This is the other side."

/ɪ/ · i corta (ship) (Como en 'ship', 'sit', 'bit' — más corta y relajada que nuestra 'i')

Boca casi cerrada, labios relajados (no estirados). La lengua toca ligeramente el paladar. Sonido breve.

Ejemplos: ship, sit, bit. Pares mínimos: ship / sheep · sit / seat · bit / beat. Frase para repetir: "Did the ship hit the bridge?"

/iː/ · i larga (sheep) (Como en 'sheep', 'seat', 'beat' — más larga y tensa que /ɪ/)

Labios estirados hacia los costados (sonrisa), lengua alta y adelantada. Mantené el sonido más tiempo.

Ejemplos: sheep, seat, beat. Pares mínimos: sheep / ship · seat / sit · beat / bit. Frase para repetir: "Please meet me by the green tree."

/æ/ · a abierta (cat) (Como en 'cat', 'bad', 'man' — más abierta y frontal que nuestra 'a')

Abrí la boca más de lo normal, mandíbula baja. La lengua queda plana y baja. Estirá ligeramente los labios.

Ejemplos: cat, bad, man. Pares mínimos: cat / cut · bad / bud · man / men. Frase para repetir: "The black cat sat on the mat."

/ʌ/ · a central (cup) (Como en 'cup', 'but', 'love' — sonido neutral en el centro de la boca)

Boca ligeramente abierta, labios relajados sin mover. La lengua en posición neutral, sin tensión.

Ejemplos: cup, but, love. Pares mínimos: cup / cap · but / bat · love / live. Frase para repetir: "Come on, run and have some fun."

/ə/ · schwa (about) (La vocal más común del inglés — en sílabas átonas como 'a-bout', 'to-day')

Boca entreabierta, mandíbula caída, lengua y labios completamente relajados. No hagas ningún esfuerzo — el sonido sale solo.

Ejemplos: about, today, camera. Pares mínimos: about / a bout · today / two day · camera / comma. Frase para repetir: "A camera was left about a sofa."

/v/ · v labio-dental (very) (Como en 'very', 'vote', 'love' — el labio inferior toca los dientes)

Muerde suavemente el labio inferior con los dientes superiores y haz vibrar la voz. No es /b/ — el aire sale entre los dientes y el labio.

Ejemplos: very, vote, love. Pares mínimos: very / berry · vine / bine · vest / best. Frase para repetir: "I love the view from every village."

/h/ · h aspirada (hello) (Como en 'hello', 'hot', 'have' — aire soplado sin voz, nunca muda)

Simplemente sopla aire por la boca con la garganta abierta, como si empañaras un vidrio. Ningún contacto de lengua ni labios.

Ejemplos: hello, hot, have. Pares mínimos: hair / air · hill / ill · heart / art. Frase para repetir: "He had a huge house on the hill."

/ŋ/ · ng nasal (sing) (Como en 'sing', 'ring', 'going' — nasal velar, sin la 'g' final)

La parte trasera de la lengua sube y toca el velo del paladar (fondo de la boca). El aire sale por la nariz. No pronuncies la 'g'.

Ejemplos: sing, ring, going. Pares mínimos: sing / sin · ring / rin · king / kin. Frase para repetir: "Singing and dancing bring me joy."

Curvá la punta de la lengua hacia atrás sin tocar nada. Los labios se redondean ligeramente. Nunca vibrés la lengua como en español.

Ejemplos: red, right, around. Pares mínimos: red / led · right / light · rain / lane. Frase para repetir: "The red car turned right at the corner."

-ed · terminaciones -ed (Verbos en pasado: -ed suena /t/, /d/ o /ɪd/ según el verbo)

Regla: si el verbo termina en /t/ o /d/, dices /ɪd/ (wanted, needed). Si termina en consonante sorda, dices /t/ (worked, laughed). En el resto, /d/ (played, loved).

Ejemplos: worked, wanted, played. Pares mínimos: worked / walked · wanted / wand · played / plate. Frase para repetir: "She worked hard, wanted more, and played fair."

Patrones de habla conectada del inglés (`/listening`, 19)

- Contractions — Dos palabras se funden en una forma más corta
- Linking — Una consonante final se pega a la vocal siguiente
- Reductions — Palabras átonas se reducen o desaparecen
- Elision — Un sonido desaparece completamente del habla rápida
- Assimilation — Un sonido cambia por influencia del sonido vecino
- [contraction] "I want to go." suena "I wanna go.". 'want to' se funde en 'wanna' en el habla rápida e informal.
- [contraction] "We are going to be late." suena "We're gonna be late.". 'going to' se convierte en 'gonna'; también 'are' se contrae en 're.

- [contraction] "I have got to leave now." suena "I gotta leave now.". 'got to' se funde en 'gotta' y la 'h' de 'have' desaparece.
- [contraction] "Can you give me a hand?" suena "Can you gimme a hand?". 'give me' se contrae en 'gimme'; la 'v' y 'e' desaparecen.
- [contraction] "Let me think about it." suena "Lemme think about it.". 'let me' se contrae en 'lemme'; la 't' y espacio desaparecen.
- [linking] "She ate an apple." suena "She ate a-napple.". La 'n' de 'an' se pega a 'apple', sonando como una sola palabra 'anapple'.
- [linking] "Can you pick it up?" suena "Can you pic-ki-tup?". Las consonantes finales se pegan a las vocales siguientes: 'pick-it-up' suena continuo.
- [linking] "Please turn it off." suena "Please tur-ni-toff.". 'turn', 'it' y 'off' se encadenan: la 'n' de turn y la 't' de it se pegan a las vocales.
- [linking] "Not at all." suena "No-ta-tall.". 'not', 'at', 'all' se encadenan formando casi una sola palabra continua.
- [reduction] "bread and butter" suena "bread 'n butter". 'and' se reduce a solo 'n', casi inaudible entre dos sustantivos.
- [reduction] "I'll do it for you." suena "I'll do it fer you.". 'for' pierde la 'o' tónica y se convierte en 'fer' (schwa) en frases sin énfasis.
- [reduction] "This sofa is very comfortable." suena "This sofa is very comftable.". 'comfortable' pierde la sílaba central 'or', pasando de 4 a 3 sílabas: 'comf-ta-ble'.
- [reduction] "kind of a mess" suena "kinda mess". 'kind of a' se reduce a 'kinda'; 'of a' casi desaparece en el habla rápida.
- [elision] "See you next day." suena "See you nex' day.". La 't' final de 'next' desaparece antes de una consonante: 'nex' day'.
- [elision] "It's the most common mistake." suena "It's the mos' common mistake.". La 't' de 'most' desaparece antes de la consonante 'c' de 'common'.
- [elision] "I called you last night." suena "I called you las' night.". La 't' final de 'last' desaparece ante 'n'; es común en cadenas consonánticas.
- [assimilation] "Don't you think so?" suena "Doncha think so?". 'don't you' → 'doncha': la 't' y 'y' se fusionan en el sonido 'ch'.
- [assimilation] "Would you like some?" suena "Wouldja like some?". 'would you' → 'wouldja': la 'd' y 'y' se fusionan en el sonido 'dj'.
- [assimilation] "I've got you now." suena "I've gotcha now.". 'got you' → 'gotcha': la 't' y 'y' se fusionan en 'ch', exactamente como 'gotcha'.

Tipos de error que detecta el coach

- `omitting_subject` — Sujeto omitido. En inglés el sujeto casi nunca se omite: 'Is possible' → 'It is possible'.
- `missing_to` — Falta 'to'. Tras need/want/like + verbo va 'to': 'I need learn' → 'I need to learn'.
- `missing_to_listen` — 'listen' + to. Se escucha algo CON 'to': 'I listen music' → 'I listen to music'.
- `adjective_plural` — Adjetivo en plural. Los adjetivos no pluralizan: 'differents' → 'different'.
- `false_friend` — Falso amigo. 'actually' = en realidad, no 'actualmente' (currently).
- `meal_verb` — Verbo con comidas. Las comidas se 'have': 'go to make breakfast' → 'have breakfast'.
- `word_order` — Orden de palabras. El inglés es bastante fijo: sujeto + verbo + objeto.
- `verb_tense` — Tiempo verbal. Ojo con present perfect vs past simple.
- `preposition` — Preposición. Las preposiciones rara vez se traducen literal del español.
- `article` — Artículos. Cuándo usar a/an/the y cuándo nada.
- `other` — Otro. Revisalo con el coach.

Historias (15)

El Café de la Marina (A2)

En Tomàs viu a prop de la platja, a Barcelona. Cada matí va al cafè de la Marina per prendre's un cafè. L'amo del cafè és la dona Maria, que és molt amable. Avui Tomàs arriba al cafè i veu que hi ha una nena petita que dibuixa. Maria li diu: 'Aquesta és la meva néta, s'anomena Clara.' Tomàs s'asseu a la taula del costat i comença a parlar amb Clara sobre els seus dibuixos. Clara li mostra un quadre de la platja amb peixos de colors. Tomàs pensa que és molt bonic. Després, Maria porta dos cafès i un suc de taronja per a Clara. Tots es riuen i passen una hora molt agradable junts.

La Festa de Barri (A2)

Dissabte és la festa de barri al carrer Principal. Els veïns preparen taules amb menjar, decoracions de colors i música. La Maria i en Joan ajuden a portar cadires i taules. Els nens juguen a la plaça. Arriba el migdia i comença la festa. Tots mengen butifarres, escalivada i coca de recapte. Després, hi ha una competició de ball. En Joan balla amb la Maria i totes les persones criden i aplaudeixen. Al final, encenen els llums decoratius de nit i és tot molt màgic. En Joan li diu a la Maria: 'Ha sigut el millor dia de l'any!'

La Visita al Mercat (A2)

Cada divendres al matí, la Mireia va al mercat de Sant Antoni. Avui busca fruita fresca per fer un postres. Parla amb el venedor de fruita: 'Quin fressals teniu avui?' El venedor li mostra uns fressals molt vermells. 'Són de la comarca', li diu. La Mireia en compra un quilo. Després va a la parada de formatge. La venedora li ofereix tastar un formatge de cabra. 'Mmm, deliciós!', exclama la Mireia. Compra 200 grams. Finalment torna a casa amb una bossa plena de productes frescos. Pensa que el mercat és el millor lloc per trobar coses bones.

El Viatge a Montserrat (A2)

En Pere i la seva família fan una excursió a Montserrat. Prenen el tren des de Barcelona. Quan arriben a dalt, veuen les roques grandioses que semblen tocar el cel. Els nens criden 'Uau!' i corren per explorar. Visiten el monestir i escolten música de l'orquestra. Després mengen en una taverna i proben coca amb tomàquet. La mare de Pere li diu: 'Tenim sort de viure aquí prop'. En Pere pensa que Montserrat és el lloc més bonic que ha vist mai. Quan tornen a casa, tots diuen que ha sigut una gran aventura.

El Projecte de Treball (B1)

En Carles treballa en una empresa de disseny. Avui el seu cap li encarrega un projecte nou: crear el logo d'una startup de tecnologia. En Carles s'estira en la cadira del despatx i comença a pensar. Dibuixa diversos esbossos al seu quadern. Els primers esborranys no li semblen bons. Decideix parlar amb els seus companys. Un d'ells suggereix combinar formes geomètriques amb colors moderns. En Carles agafa la idea i comença a treballar en l'ordenador. Després de tres hores, ha creat un logo que li agrada molt. Envia el disseny al seu cap. L'endemà, el cap li diu: 'Excel·lent treball, En Carles!' La satisfacció que sent és enorme.

L'Amitstat Inesperada (A2)

En Sergi és tímid i no parla gaire en classe. Un dia es tomba la seva motxilla i els seus llibres cauen al terra. Una nena, la Sònia, l'ajuda a recollir-los. Ella li diu: 'No et preocupis, a mi també se'm cau tot!' En Sergi somriu. Els dos comencen a parlar sobre les seves aficions: els dos estimem les pel·lícules de ciència-ficció. Després d'aquest dia, es fan inseparables. Sempre mengen junts al pati, veuen pel·lícules els dissabtes i fins i tot fan tasques junts. Una setmana la Sònia li diu: 'Ets el millor amic que he tingut mai.' En Sergi se sent molt feliç. Pensa que a vegades una petita ajuda pot canviar la teva vida.

La Casa Nova (A2)

La família Pascual es muda a una casa nova al barri de Sarrià. La casa té tres habitacions, un jardí gran i una terrassa amb vistes a la ciutat. Els nens, en Pol i la Mireia, corren per totes les habitacions explorant. La mare comença a despaqueta les caixes. En Pol hi va a ajudar. Descobreix la seva habitació: és gran i té finestres que miren al jardí. Coloca el seu llit i els seus joguets. La Mireia decora la seva habitació amb cartells de la seva banda preferida. Després de la primera nit a la casa nova, tots es desperten amb alegria. En Pol diu: 'Aquesta és la casa més bonica del món!' El pare somriu i diu: 'Aquí vivim molts records feliços.'

El Partit de Futbol (A2)

Avui és el gran partit: el barri juga contra el barri veí. En David és porter de l'equip local. Està nerviós però decidit. El partit comença i és molt emocionant. Els dos equips juguen bé, però ningú marca gols. En la segona meitat, l'equip contrari tira una pilota molt pròxima a la porta. En David es tira i l'atrapa amb les mans. Tots els seus companys criden 'Fantàstic!' Un minut després, en David marca un gol de falta, directe, amb el peu. L'estadi va boig. La seva mare, que veu des de les grajoles, crida el seu nom. Al final, guanyen 1-0. En David és l'heroi del dia. Els seus companys el lleven a les espatlles. Se sent orgullós i feliç.

La Biblioteca Mágica (B1)

En Marc descobreix una biblioteca antiga que no havia vist mai, amagada darrere d'una escala a la plaça major. Quan entra, veu milers de llibres de tots colors. La bibliotecària, una senyora gran amb ulleres, li somriu. 'Benvingut,' li diu. En Marc comença a explorar els prestatges. Troba llibres de tots els gèneres: ciència-ficció, fantasia, història, poesia. Li demana a la bibliotecària recomanacions. Ella li diu: 'Llegeix aquest—és sobre un viatger que visita mons paral·lels.' En Marc agafa el llibre i comença a llegir aquell dia mateix. La lectura el transporta a mons imaginaris. Torna a la biblioteca cada dia, descobrint nous llibres i noves històries. Finalment, fa amistat amb la bibliotecària. Pensa que la biblioteca és el seu lloc favorit del món.

L'Hivernacle (A2)

La Núria treballa en un hivernacle gran on cultiva flors i plantes. Cada matí s'encarrega de regar les plantes, podar les branques mortes i comprovar que no hi hagi plagues. Avui nota que una orquídia està tristeta, amb les fulles caigudes. Li parla suaument: 'No et preocupis, et cuidarè.' Li canvia la terra i la mou a un lloc amb més llum. Una setmana més tard, l'orquídia floreix amb les flors més boniques que ha vist mai. La Núria es sent molt orgullosa. Els seus clients venen al hivernacle i admiren totes les plantes. Una senyora li diu: 'Quant cura i passió dediques!' La Núria somriu. Pensa que el treball amb la natura la fa molt feliç.

La Botiga de Roba Vintage (B1)

En Xavi obri una botiga de roba vintage en un carrer quiet del Born. La botiga és petita però amb molt caràcter: roba dels anys 60, 70 i 80, tots amb história. El primer client és una noia jove que busca una jaqueta denim clàssica. En Xavi li mostra dues jaquetes i li conta la história d'on van venir. La noia es prova les dues i tria la més bonica. Mentre paga, li diu: 'Aquesta botiga és increïble, vaig a recomanar-la als meus amics.' Dia tras dia, més gent descobreix la botiga.

Alguns venen a vendre roba antiga, altres a buscar peces úniques. En Xavi es converteix en expert en roba vintage i una espècie de conseller de moda per al barri. Al final del primer mes, pensa que ha fet la millor decisió obrint aquesta botiga.

L'Excursió a la Muntanya (A2)

Els adolescents de l'institut organitzen una excursió a la muntanya. Vuitanta estudiants hi van sense falta; el professor Carles és el coordinador. Surten a les sis del matí en autobús. Arriben a la base i comencen la pujada. Es camina, es sua, es riuen dels acudits que fan. A mig camí, es paren a descansar i menjar. Hi ha sandvitxos, galetes i aigua freda. En Pau li diu al seu amic: 'Estic mort de cansament però és fantàstic estar aquí.' Finalment arriben al cim. La vista és estel·lar: es veu tot Barcelona a la distància, el mar, les muntanyes. Els estudiants canten cançons i fan fotos. Alguns es troben l'energia per fer les últimes passes. Al final, tots descenen cansats però contents. El professor Carles diu: 'Avui hem après que amb determinació, pots arribar a qualsevol lloc.'

La Classe de Dansa (A2)

La Laura comença classes de ball a una escola de dansa al Poble Sec. La primera classe pot semblar intimidant: hi ha miralls grans, música alta i nens que ja saben ballar. La professora és la dona Elisa, que té molt de carisma. Ella li diu a Laura: 'No et preocupis, tots vam ser principiants.' La classe comença amb calentament: es mouen els braços, les cames, es salta. Després aprenen els passos bàsics de salsa. Laura fa passos equivocats al principi, però Elisa la corregeix amb paciència. Després d'una hora, Laura està suada però somriu. Surt de la classe pensant que tornarà la propera setmana. El que va pensar que seria difícil va resultar ser divertit i emocionant.

El Restaurant Familiar (B1)

La família Montseny posseeix un restaurant tradicional català a Montcada. Es transmet de generació en generació: primer l'avi, després el pare, ara el fill major, en Ricard. El restaurant és petit però acollidor, amb taules de fusta, fotos antigues a les parets i l'aroma de la cuina casolana. En Ricard treballa com a xef; la seva mare és la recepcionista. El seu germà menor ajuda a la sala. Cada dia, clients fidels venen a menjar la coca de recapte de la mare o el pollastre a l'escaivada de l'avi. Un dia arriba un crític de restaurant. En Ricard es posa nerviós però cuina amb el seu cor. El crític menja, somriu i diu: 'Aquí se sent l'amor pels productes i la tradició.' L'article que publica després és meravellós. En Ricard és orgullós d'haver mantingut viva la tradició familiar.

L'Art de la Ceràmica (B1)

En Gael és artista de ceràmica. Treballa en una sala gran amb forn, torns i milers de peces en proves. Cada dia comença amb la matèria primera: la terra roja. Posa la terra al torn i comença a donar forma. Les seves mans es mouen amb precisió. Modela plats, gerres, escultures petites. Alguns dissenys són tradicionals, altres són moderns i experimentals. Un dia, una galeria d'art es interessa pels seus treballs. Demanen exposar les seves peces. En Gael selecciona les millors: unes quinze peces que representen cinc anys de treball. L'obertura de l'exposició és un éxit. Artistes i col·leccionadors admiren la ceràmica. En Gael se sent realitzat. Pensa que seguirá creant, explorant nous colors i formes, seguint la tradició antiga de la ceràmica.

The Lantern Keeper of Hollow Pass (B1) · fantasy / adventure

Fuente: `supabase/migrations/0005_xp_and_story_library.sql`

High in the mountains, where the clouds rest on the peaks like wool, there is a narrow road called Hollow Pass. For three hundred years, a lantern has burned at its highest point. The keeper of that lantern is Maren, a quiet woman with ink-stained fingers and a habit of humming when she is nervous.

One autumn night, the lantern flickered and went out. Travelers who crossed the pass in the dark were never seen again. Maren knew she had only one choice: she had to climb to the old shrine and relight the flame herself, before the first snow closed the road.

The climb took all night. Her boots slipped on the ice, and the wind tried to push her back down the mountain. At one point she sat on a rock and wanted to give up. But then she remembered her grandmother's saying: a light does not need to be large, it only needs to be kept.

At dawn she reached the shrine. The old flame was cold, but beneath the ashes she found a single ember still glowing. She blew on it gently, fed it dry moss, and watched it grow. When the sun rose, the lantern burned again, and a caravan of merchants, far below, saw the light and turned toward the pass safely.

The Dragon Who Collected Clocks (A2) · fantasy / humor

Fuente: `supabase/migrations/0005_xp_and_story_library.sql`

Far away, in a valley full of pine trees, there lived a dragon named Ember. Ember was not like other dragons. He did not guard gold or jewels. He collected clocks.

He had clocks on every wall of his cave. Some were tall and loud, some were tiny and silent, and one was shaped like a fish. Ember loved them all, but he had a problem: he never knew what time it was. Every clock showed a different hour.

One day a girl named Pia climbed the mountain to find him. She carried a small wooden watch. "Your clocks are wrong," she said. "They all tick at different speeds."

Ember was offended at first. Then he looked closely and saw that she was right. "Then help me fix them," he said.

They worked together all afternoon. Pia taught him how to set each clock by the sun. By evening, the cave was quiet, and every clock showed the same time.

Ember smiled, and a little smoke came out of his nose. "Now I know when it is time to sleep," he said. And Pia went home happy, knowing that a dragon could learn something new, too.

The Missing Violin (B1) · mystery

Fuente: `supabase/migrations/0005_xp_and_story_library.sql`

On a grey Monday morning, Inspector Lena Hart received a call from the Hollis Concert Hall. The famous violin of the orchestra's soloist, a 200-year-old instrument, had vanished from its locked case overnight.

The hall had three keys. The director had one, the caretaker had one, and the soloist, Daniel Ruiz, kept the third around his neck. The doors were locked, and there were no signs of forced entry.

Lena noticed three things. First, the case was closed, but the velvet inside was still folded in the shape of the violin, which meant it had been put back and then taken out again. Second, the caretaker's shoes were wet, although it had not rained. Third, Daniel was the only person who knew that the violin needed to be repaired the next day.

She went back to the hall and checked the old maintenance corridor. Behind a row of stored chairs she found a small trapdoor. Under it was the violin, wrapped in a blanket, and a repair receipt with the caretaker's name on it.

It turned out that the caretaker had taken the violin to a repair shop early, because the soloist had asked him to. The soloist had been worried about a crack, and he had wanted it fixed quietly, before anyone found out. Lena closed the case and smiled. Sometimes the truth is simpler than a mystery.

Preguntas de comprensión

- How many keys were there to the hall?
  - · One
  - · Two
  - ✓ Three
  - · Four
- What clue showed the violin had been moved twice?
  - · Footprints in the hall
  - ✓ The velvet folded in the violin's shape
  - · A broken window
  - · A note from the director
- Why had the soloist asked for the violin to be taken away?
  - · He wanted to sell it
  - ✓ He wanted a crack repaired quietly
  - · He was angry at the orchestra
  - · He lost his keys

A Letter Without a Stamp (B2) · mystery

Fuente: `supabase/migrations/0005_xp_and_story_library.sql`

Every morning for six months, a letter appeared under the door of the Bellamy bakery. It had no stamp and no return address. Inside was always the same single line, written in careful blue ink: "The bread is good, but the oven is too hot."

Clara Bellamy, who ran the bakery with her brother, found the letters funny at first. Then they became unsettling. The writer seemed to know the exact temperature of the oven, the hour when the flour was delivered, and the name of the cat that slept by the door.

Clara decided to find out who was writing. She started waking up before dawn. On the seventh morning, she saw a figure standing in the rain across the street, holding an umbrella that did not quite cover him. He was an old man, thin and very still, watching the bakery window.

She ran outside, but he had already turned the corner. Later that day, she visited the post office and asked about the blue ink. The clerk told her that an elderly man had been collecting old recipes from the neighborhood for a book. He had been a baker himself, once, in the same building, decades before.

The letters were not threats after all. They were advice, written by someone who missed the place and could not stop caring about it. Clara left a reply on the doorstep the next morning: "Come in for breakfast. The oven is hot, but the door is open."

Preguntas de comprensión

- What did the letters always say?
  - · Thank you for the bread
  - ✓ The bread is good, but the oven is too hot
  - · Close the shop earlier
  - · Who are you?
- Why did the letters seem unsettling at first?
  - · They were written in red ink
  - ✓ They knew private details about the bakery
  - · They threatened to close the shop
  - · They arrived by post
- Who was the writer, in the end?

- · A rival baker who wanted the shop
- · A thief looking for money
- ✓ An old man who had once been a baker there
- · A journalist writing a story

The Habit Loop (A2) · brain / habits

Fuente: `supabase/migrations/0005_xp_and_story_library.sql`

Marta wanted to read more, but every evening she picked up her phone instead of a book. She felt bad about it, but she did not know how to change.

One day her friend Tomas told her about a simple idea. Most habits have three parts. First, there is a cue, something that tells your brain to start. Then comes the routine, the action you repeat. Finally, there is a reward, which makes your brain want to do it again.

Marta looked at her evening carefully. The cue was sitting down on the sofa. The routine was opening the phone. The reward was a few minutes of funny videos. So she made one small change. Every evening, when she sat on the sofa, she put her book on the cushion next to her. The cue stayed the same. The routine was now reading one page. And for the reward, she allowed herself a cup of tea.

The first week was hard. She often forgot. But the book was always there, waiting, and the tea was always ready. After three weeks, something had changed. Sitting on the sofa now made her reach for the book without thinking.

Marta did not become a different person. She simply built a path that was easier to follow. Her brain learned the new route, one page at a time.

Preguntas de comprensión

- What are the three parts of a habit in this story?
  - · Goal, plan, and rest
  - ✓ Cue, routine, and reward
  - · Start, stop, and repeat
  - · Phone, sofa, and tea
- What was Marta's cue?
  - · Opening the phone
  - · Reading one page
  - ✓ Sitting down on the sofa
  - · Drinking tea
- What did Marta change to build the new habit?
  - · The cue, by leaving the sofa
  - ✓ The routine, by reading one page
  - · The reward, by removing the tea
  - · Nothing at all

Rewiring a Mind (B2) · neuroscience / learning

Fuente: `supabase/migrations/0005_xp_and_story_library.sql`

For decades, scientists believed that the adult brain was fixed, like a building that could no longer change its rooms. Today we know this is not true. The brain is plastic: its connections between neurons can strengthen, weaken, and reorganize throughout life.

Dr. Ines Keller had spent fifteen years studying this process. Her laboratory was not glamorous. It had old microscopes, a coffee machine that worked only when it wanted to, and a wall of notebooks filled with careful measurements.

Her most important finding was simple to describe and hard to prove. When a person repeats a new skill, the neural pathways involved become faster and more efficient. The first attempts feel awkward, because the signal travels along a weak, unfamiliar route. With repetition, the signal finds a stronger path. The skill starts to feel automatic.

Keller often told her students that attention is the key. Practice that is distracted or passive builds weaker pathways than practice that is focused and effortful. This is also why making mistakes, and then correcting them, can be useful: the correction is a signal that tells the brain where to strengthen the route.

At the end of her career, Keller wrote a short sentence on the first page of her most famous book: "The brain does not wait for permission to change. It only needs repetition, and the patience to repeat." She knew that this was not a promise of instant results. It was an invitation to keep practicing.

Preguntas de comprensión

- What did scientists once believe about the adult brain?
  - · It changes every day
  - ✓ It is fixed and cannot change much
  - · It only grows in childhood, then shrinks
  - · It works only with a computer
- According to Keller, what makes a pathway stronger?
  - · Passive listening
  - ✓ Repetition and focused effort
  - · Sleeping more
  - · Avoiding all mistakes
- Why can correcting mistakes help learning?
  - · It makes the lesson shorter
  - ✓ It signals the brain where to strengthen the route
  - · It removes the need for practice
  - · It is required by law

The Night London Burned (B1) · history

Fuente: `supabase/migrations/0005_xp_and_story_library.sql`

On the night of 2 September 1666, a fire started in a bakery on Pudding Lane, in the heart of London. The city was built mostly of wood, and that summer had been very dry. A strong wind carried sparks from roof to roof.

Samuel Pepys, a government official, watched from a boat on the river. He wrote in his diary that the fire seemed to spread faster than people could run. Families carried their belongings to the river, and the sky glowed orange all night.

The firefighting was slow and confused. Many houses were pulled down with hooks and ropes to create gaps that the flames could not cross. This method worked, but it took time and courage. King Charles II, who had been worried for days, came to help people carry buckets of water and furniture.

When the fire finally stopped, four days later, much of the city lay in ruins. Thousands of houses were destroyed, and St Paul's Cathedral, the great church at the centre of London, was badly damaged. Yet surprisingly few people were killed, perhaps only a handful, compared with the size of the disaster.

The rebuilding changed London forever. New houses were built with brick and stone, and new rules limited the use of wood. Architect Christopher Wren designed many new churches, and a tall column, the Monument, was raised near the place where the fire had begun.

Preguntas de comprensión

- Where did the Great Fire of London start?
  - · In a church
  - ✓ In a bakery on Pudding Lane
  - · On the river
  - · In the royal palace
- Why did the fire spread so quickly?
  - · There was snow on the roofs
  - ✓ The city was mostly wood and very dry
  - · People used too much water
  - · The river was frozen
- What changed in London after the fire?
  - · Houses were built with more wood
  - ✓ New buildings used brick and stone
  - · The river was closed
  - · The city moved to another place

One Small Step, 1969 (A2) · history / space

Fuente: `supabase/migrations/0005_xp_and_story_library.sql`

On 16 July 1969, a huge rocket lifted off from Florida. Inside the top part of the spacecraft were three astronauts: Neil Armstrong, Buzz Aldrin, and Michael Collins. Their mission was called Apollo 11, and its goal was to land humans on the Moon.

Four days later, the lunar module, called Eagle, separated from the main ship. Armstrong and Aldrin flew it down toward the surface. Collins stayed above, in orbit, alone with the big command module.

The landing was almost a disaster. The computer warned of alarms, and Armstrong saw that the planned area was full of large rocks. He took manual control and flew the ship to a flatter place. Only a few seconds of fuel were left when Eagle touched down.

On 20 July 1969, Armstrong climbed down the ladder. He stepped onto the surface and said his famous words: "That's one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind." Aldrin joined him soon after.

They spent about two and a half hours outside. They planted a flag, collected rocks, and took photographs. Then they returned to Eagle and rejoined Collins. Around the world, hundreds of millions of people watched on television, and many of them remember the moment still.

Preguntas de comprensión

- What was the name of the mission?
  - · Apollo 13
  - ✓ Apollo 11
  - · Eagle 1
  - · Columbus
- Who stayed in orbit while the others landed?
  - · Neil Armstrong
  - · Buzz Aldrin

    - ✓ Michael Collins
    - · Mission control
- Why did Armstrong fly the ship to a different place?
    - · He wanted to see the Earth
    - ✓ The planned area was full of large rocks
    - · The fuel was too strong
    - · He was asked by the television crew

Two Faces in One Mirror (B2) · classic retelling / psychology

Fuente: `supabase/migrations/0005_xp_and_story_library.sql`

Dr. Henry Hale was respected by everyone in his city. He was kind to his patients, generous with his time, and careful in his work. But he had a secret worry. He sometimes felt that another part of him was waiting in the shadows, a part that wanted to do whatever it pleased, without thinking of consequences.

He began to study this feeling in his laboratory. He mixed a pale liquid that he believed could separate the good from the bad inside a person. For a while, the experiments seemed to work. When he drank the liquid, his body changed, and a second person appeared, smaller, younger, and much more reckless.

The second man called himself Edward Hyde. At first Henry enjoyed the freedom. Then the freedom became a habit, and the habit became a danger. Hyde did things that Henry would never have chosen, and each time Henry woke up, he found the consequences waiting for him.

Henry tried to stop. He threw away the liquid and promised himself he would never touch it again. But the desire to be free from his responsibilities grew stronger each day, and one evening he could not resist.

The story is often read as a warning about hidden anger and the cost of pretending to be perfect. Hale's lesson, if he had learned it, is simple: trying to split yourself into two people does not remove the difficult parts. It only hides them until they grow.

Preguntas de comprensión

- What was Henry Hale's secret worry?
    - · He was losing his money
    - ✓ Another part of him wanted to act without consequences
    - · He was afraid of hospitals
    - · He did not like his city
- What did the liquid seem to do?
    - · Heal his patients
    - ✓ Create a second, reckless personality
    - · Make him sleep for days
    - · Turn him into a bird
- What is the main lesson of the story?
    - · Liquids can cure any illness
    - ✓ Hiding the hard parts of yourself makes them grow
    - · Doctors should not experiment
    - · Freedom is always dangerous

The Weekend DJ (B1) · music / DJ

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

Tom had always been passionate about music. Since he was a teenager, he had spent hours listening to records in his bedroom, carefully studying the way tracks flowed from one to another. Now, at twenty-eight, he worked as an accountant during the week but transformed into DJ Tom every Saturday night at a small club in Camden.

The preparation was as important as the performance itself. On Thursday evenings, Tom would sit at his laptop, listening to new releases and old classics, organising his playlist for the weekend. He paid particular attention to the energy of each track and how it could connect with the crowd.

His favourite moment was always around midnight, when the dance floor was packed and the music seemed to flow effortlessly. He would read the room carefully, noticing when people were getting tired and needed an uplifting tune, or when they were ready for something more intense. It was a skill that had taken years to develop.

Last weekend, something unexpected happened. A record label manager happened to be in the club and was impressed by Tom's set. After the show, she approached him with a business card and suggested they meet for coffee. Tom was so surprised that he could barely speak.

He knew that this kind of opportunity rarely came twice. That Sunday morning, he sat in his small flat, staring at the business card. Perhaps it was time to consider whether music could become more than just a weekend hobby. The idea both excited and frightened him enormously.

Preguntas de comprensión

- What does Tom do during the week?
  - · He works as a musician
  - ✓ He works as an accountant
  - · He works at a club
  - · He studies at university
- When does Tom usually prepare his playlist?
  - · On Saturday afternoons
  - · On Friday mornings
  - ✓ On Thursday evenings
  - · On Sunday nights
- What unexpected event happened last weekend?
  - · A friend joined him behind the decks
  - · The sound system broke down
  - ✓ A record label manager approached him
  - · The club owner offered him a contract
- How did Tom feel after the record label manager spoke to him?
  - · Angry and defensive
  - ✓ So surprised he could barely speak
  - · Immediately confident

My First Investment (B1) · investments

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

Sarah had always been careful with her money, but she had never invested any of it. She kept her savings in a standard bank account, earning almost no interest. One afternoon, a colleague mentioned that she had started investing in index funds, and Sarah became curious.

She spent the following week reading articles and watching videos online. She learnt that an index fund simply tracks the performance of a group of companies, such as the largest five hundred companies in the United States. Instead of picking individual shares, investors spread their money across many different businesses, which reduces the risk considerably.

What surprised her most was how little money she needed to start. She had assumed that investing was only for wealthy people, but she discovered that she could begin with as little as fifty pounds a month. The key was to invest regularly and to be patient, allowing the money to grow over many years.

After two weeks of research, Sarah opened an account with an online investment platform. She decided to put aside one hundred pounds each month into a global index fund. She set up an automatic payment so that the money would be transferred without her having to think about it.

Three months later, she checked her account and noticed that her investment had grown slightly. It was not a dramatic sum, but it was more than her savings account would have produced. More importantly, she felt that she was finally making her money work for her, rather than letting it sit idle.

Preguntas de comprensión

- Why did Sarah become interested in investing?
  - · She read a book about finance
  - ✓ A colleague mentioned index funds
  - · Her bank manager advised her
  - · She saw an advertisement
- What is an index fund?
  - · A savings account with high interest
  - ✓ A fund that tracks a group of companies
  - · A type of individual company share
  - · A government bond
- How much did Sarah decide to invest each month?
  - · Fifty pounds
  - · Two hundred pounds
  - ✓ One hundred pounds
  - · Five hundred pounds
- What did Sarah notice three months later?
  - · Her investment had lost money
  - ✓ Her investment had grown slightly
  - · Her account had been closed

Working From Home (A2) · technology / work

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

James started working from home last year. At first, he was very happy. He did not have to travel to the office every morning. He could wake up later and have breakfast at home. He saved a lot of time and money on transport.

But after a few weeks, James had some problems. He felt very lonely because he did not see his colleagues every day. He also found it difficult to stop working in the evening. His laptop was always on the table in the living room, and he kept checking his emails.

His manager noticed that James seemed tired and suggested some changes. She told him to create a special space for work in his flat. James moved his desk to a small corner and added a plant and a good lamp. He also decided to finish work at six o'clock every day and to close his laptop completely.

James also started to join online video calls with his team every morning. They talked about their work and sometimes about their weekends. This helped James feel more connected to his colleagues.

Now, six months later, James enjoys working from home. He has a good routine and he feels healthy and happy. He still misses some things about the office, like the free coffee and the birthday cakes, but overall he thinks working from home is a great way to work.

Preguntas de comprensión

- Why was James happy at first?
  - · He got a pay rise
  - ✓ He did not have to travel to work
  - · He had a new laptop
  - · His colleagues visited him
- What was James's main problem after a few weeks?
  - · His internet connection was slow
  - ✓ He felt lonely and could not stop working
  - · His flat was too small
  - · He did not like his manager
- What did James do to improve his situation?
  - · He returned to the office
  - ✓ He moved his desk and set a finish time
  - · He changed his job
  - · He bought a new flat
- What does James still miss about the office?
  - · His manager
  - · The noise and activity
  - ✓ Free coffee and birthday cakes
  - · His old desk

A Trip to Edinburgh (A2) · travel

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

Last summer, Maria visited Edinburgh for the first time. She travelled by train from London. The journey took about four and a half hours. Maria read a book and listened to music on the way. She arrived at Edinburgh Waverley station in the afternoon.

Her hotel was near the city centre. It was small but very clean and comfortable. The receptionist was friendly and gave her a map of the city. She told Maria about the best places to visit.

The next morning, Maria walked up to Edinburgh Castle. The castle is very old and sits on a high rock in the middle of the city. From the top, she could see the whole city and the sea in the distance. It was a beautiful view. Inside the castle, she learnt about Scottish history and saw the Scottish Crown Jewels.

In the afternoon, she walked down the Royal Mile. This is a long street full of shops, restaurants, and street musicians. Maria bought some Scottish shortbread for her family and tried haggis in a local restaurant. She was not sure she liked haggis at first, but the second bite was much better.

On her last day, she visited the Scottish National Museum. The museum was free and had interesting things about Scottish culture, science, and history. Maria was very tired at the end of her trip, but she was also very happy. She decided that she would definitely come back to Scotland one day.

Preguntas de comprensión

- How did Maria travel to Edinburgh?
  - · By plane
  - · By car
  - ✓ By train
  - · By bus
- Where did Maria go on the first morning?
  - · The Royal Mile
  - ✓ Edinburgh Castle
  - · The Scottish National Museum
  - · A restaurant
- What did Maria buy for her family?
  - · A postcard
  - ✓ Scottish shortbread
  - · A Scottish flag
  - · A bottle of whisky
- How much did the Scottish National Museum cost?
  - · Ten pounds
  - · Twenty pounds
  - · Five pounds
  - ✓ Nothing — it was free

The Streaming Revolution (B2) · music / technology

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

The music industry has undergone a profound transformation over the past two decades. The shift from physical formats — vinyl, cassettes, and compact discs — to digital streaming has fundamentally altered how artists create, distribute, and profit from their work. Platforms such as Spotify, Apple Music, and Tidal now account for the majority of global music consumption, yet the financial implications for musicians remain deeply controversial.

Critics argue that streaming royalties are notoriously low. An artist typically receives between three and five thousandths of a penny per stream, meaning that even a moderately successful song requires millions of plays before generating meaningful income. Independent musicians, who lack the marketing budgets of major labels, often find themselves trapped in a cycle of constant content creation simply to remain visible on algorithmic playlists.

Conversely, proponents of streaming emphasise its democratising effect on the industry. Any aspiring artist can upload music to these platforms without the need for a record deal, instantly reaching a global audience. Genres that were previously considered too niche for mainstream distribution now thrive in dedicated digital communities.

What is undeniable is that the live performance market has grown substantially in response. Since recording revenue has diminished, touring and merchandise have become the primary income streams for most artists. This has led to a renaissance of live music culture, with festivals expanding across the globe and intimate venues experiencing a remarkable revival.

The debate is far from settled. As artificial intelligence begins to generate music autonomously, questions about authorship, royalties, and the very definition of artistic creativity are becoming increasingly urgent.

Preguntas de comprensión

- What is the main argument of critics regarding streaming?
  - · Streaming is too complicated for older artists
  - ✓ Royalties are too low to generate meaningful income
  - · Streaming platforms have poor sound quality

    - · Physical formats are still more popular
- What advantage of streaming do its supporters highlight?
    - · It pays artists very well
    - · It makes music more expensive for listeners
    - ✓ It allows any artist to reach a global audience
    - · It reduces the need for live performances
- How have artists compensated for lower recording revenue?
    - · By raising the price of albums
    - ✓ By focusing on touring and merchandise
    - · By signing with major labels exclusively
    - · By leaving the music industry
- What new challenge is mentioned at the end of the text?
    - · The decline of live music
    - · The return of vinyl records
    - ✓ AI generating music autonomously
    - · Streaming platforms going bankrupt

Passive Income and Financial Freedom (B2) · investments

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

The concept of passive income has captured the imagination of a generation raised on the promise of financial independence. The idea is straightforward: build assets that generate money with minimal ongoing effort, eventually reaching a point where investment returns cover living expenses — a state commonly referred to as financial freedom or, in investment circles, FIRE (Financial Independence, Retire Early).

In practice, achieving this goal requires considerable discipline and a long time horizon. The most accessible route for most people involves consistent contributions to diversified investment portfolios, typically combining equity index funds with bond holdings in proportions that reflect individual risk tolerance. The mathematics underpinning this strategy rely on compound growth — the process by which returns generate further returns over time.

Property investment represents another popular pathway, though one fraught with complexity. Rental income can provide a reliable monthly cash flow, but landlords must contend with maintenance costs, periods of vacancy, and increasingly stringent regulation in many markets. The initial capital requirement also remains prohibitive for many prospective investors.

Dividend-paying shares offer a middle ground. By holding stakes in established companies with strong balance sheets, investors receive regular payments without needing to sell their holdings. The risk, however, is that dividends are never guaranteed and can be cut during economic downturns.

What financial advisers consistently emphasise is that no passive income strategy eliminates risk entirely. The goal is not to eliminate uncertainty but to manage it intelligently, building a diversified portfolio resilient enough to weather inevitable storms whilst growing steadily over the long term.

Preguntas de comprensión

- What does FIRE stand for in the context of this text?
    - · Fixed Income Regular Earnings
    - ✓ Financial Independence, Retire Early
    - · Funds, Investments, Returns, Equity
    - · Free Income, Reliable Earnings
- What does compound growth mean?
    - · Investing in many different countries

    - · Saving money in a bank account
    - ✓ Returns generating further returns over time
    - · Buying and selling shares quickly
- What is one disadvantage of property investment mentioned in the text?
    - · It never produces rental income
    - · It requires no initial capital
    - ✓ It involves maintenance costs and vacancies
    - · Dividends are never guaranteed
- What do financial advisers emphasise about passive income strategies?
    - · They always guarantee profit
    - ✓ No strategy eliminates risk entirely
    - · Property is always the best option
    - · Investors should never sell their holdings

The Digital Nomad (B1) · travel / technology

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

Emma had been working as a graphic designer for the same company for three years. She enjoyed her job, but the daily commute to the office was exhausting. When her company announced that employees could work remotely full time, she saw an opportunity she had always dreamed about.

She began researching countries that were popular with digital nomads — people who work online while travelling. She discovered that Portugal, Mexico, and Thailand offered good internet connections, reasonable costs of living, and special visas designed specifically for remote workers. After careful consideration, she chose Lisbon as her first destination.

The first month was challenging. Emma had to adapt to a new time zone, a different culture, and the experience of working alone without colleagues nearby. She found a co-working space in the city centre, where she met other remote workers from various countries. Within a few weeks, she had a small group of friends who shared similar lifestyles.

She quickly discovered that being a digital nomad required more organisation than she had expected. She needed reliable internet everywhere she went, so she always carried a portable wi-fi device as a backup. She also learnt to separate her working hours from her exploring hours, otherwise she would feel guilty enjoying the city while messages arrived from her team.

After six months in Lisbon, Emma moved to Barcelona. She was no longer nervous about setting up her life in a new place. She had learnt to pack efficiently, to research neighbourhoods before arriving, and most importantly, to enjoy the remarkable privilege of working from some of the world's most beautiful cities.

Preguntas de comprensión

- Why did Emma see an opportunity when her company allowed remote work?
    - · She wanted to earn more money
    - ✓ She had always dreamed of travelling while working
    - · She needed to visit a family member abroad
    - · She disliked her job
- Where did Emma go first?
    - · Bangkok
    - · Mexico City
    - · Barcelona
    - ✓ Lisbon

- What did Emma carry as a backup for internet access?
  - · A laptop with extra storage
  - ✓ A portable wi-fi device
  - · A second mobile phone
  - · A list of local cafés

Learning to Cook (A2) · general / lifestyle

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

When David moved into his own flat for the first time, he did not know how to cook anything. He only knew how to make toast and pour cereal. Every evening, he ordered takeaway food or went to a cheap restaurant near his home. After one month, he realised that this was very expensive and also unhealthy.

His mother gave him a simple recipe book for his birthday. It had easy recipes with pictures and step-by-step instructions. David started with the easiest recipe in the book: pasta with tomato sauce. He bought the ingredients and followed the instructions carefully. The result was surprisingly good.

He made the same pasta dish every day for two weeks until he was confident. Then he tried something new: chicken with vegetables. This was more difficult because he had to use the oven and watch the temperature carefully. He burnt the chicken the first time, but the second time it was perfect.

David bought some kitchen equipment: a good knife, a large frying pan, and a baking tray. He also watched cooking videos on his phone. He learnt small but important things, like how to cut an onion without crying and how to check if a potato is ready.

After three months, David could make ten different dishes. His friends were impressed when he invited them to dinner. He spent much less money on food and felt healthier. He also discovered that he really enjoyed cooking. It was creative and relaxing after a long day at work.

The Social Media Detox (B2) · technology / wellbeing

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

When Laura's therapist suggested that she take a month-long break from social media, Laura's initial reaction was something close to panic. She was a content creator with nearly eighty thousand followers across three platforms, and the idea of disappearing from her feeds felt professionally reckless, if not personally terrifying.

She posted a brief farewell message explaining her absence and deleted the apps from her phone. The first three days were genuinely uncomfortable. She found herself reflexively reaching for her phone during moments of idleness — waiting for the kettle to boil, sitting on the tube, eating lunch alone. The absence of that familiar scroll felt like a small but persistent itch she could not scratch.

By the end of the first week, however, something unexpected occurred. She began noticing details in her environment that had previously escaped her attention: the particular quality of autumn light in the late afternoon, the overheard fragments of conversations in coffee shops, the satisfying weight of a physical book. Her concentration improved markedly.

The social dimension was more complicated. She had assumed she would feel isolated, but instead discovered that her friendships had become more intentional. Without the passive surveillance of social media updates, she was compelled to actually contact people she cared about — a phone call, an invitation to meet.

When the month concluded and she reinstalled the apps, she felt no particular urgency to scroll. She reduced her posting frequency by half, set strict time limits, and began treating social media as a tool rather than a habitat. Her follower count, she noted with some amusement, had actually increased during her absence.

  - · She lost contact with most friends
  - ✓ Her friendships became more intentional
  - · She made many new friends online
  - · She became isolated and unhappy
- What happened to her follower count during her absence?
  - · It fell dramatically
  - · It stayed exactly the same
  - ✓ It actually increased
  - · She never checked

Behind the Decks at Glastonbury (B1) · music / festivals

Nina had been DJing at small venues for five years, but nothing had prepared her for the scale of Glastonbury. The festival invited her to play a two-hour set at the Park Stage on Friday evening. When the invitation arrived by email, she read it three times before she believed it was real.

The preparation took weeks. She listened to hundreds of tracks, built dozens of potential playlists, and practised mixing for hours each day in her bedroom studio. She spoke to other DJs who had played the festival before. They all gave her the same advice: read the crowd, not the clock.

On the day of her set, the backstage area was simultaneously thrilling and overwhelming. She met artists she had admired for years, all of them relaxed in a way that only experience could produce. A security guard led her to the stage thirty minutes before she was due to start, and the sight of the crowd made her heart race.

Once she started playing, however, the anxiety dissolved. The crowd responded immediately to her opening track, and she felt the particular joy that comes from thousands of people moving together to music you have chosen. She made decisions instinctively, following the energy of the audience rather than her prepared set list.

Afterwards, backstage, she sat quietly with a cup of tea and tried to process what had just happened. A journalist asked her how it felt to play to such a large crowd. She thought for a moment before answering: it felt, she said, like conducting a conversation where everybody understood the language perfectly.

  - · Always play the most popular songs
  - · Start slowly and build up gradually
- How did Nina feel once she started playing?
  - · More nervous than before
  - ✓ The anxiety dissolved and she played instinctively
  - · She made many technical mistakes
  - · She regretted coming
- How did Nina describe the experience of playing to a large crowd?
  - · Terrifying and overwhelming
  - · Like a job interview
  - ✓ Like conducting a conversation everyone understood
  - · Like playing alone in her bedroom

The Emergency Fund (A2) · investments / personal finance

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

Pedro was twenty-five years old and had a good job. He earned enough money to pay his rent, his food, and his bills, but at the end of every month he had almost nothing left. One day, his car broke down and the repair cost five hundred pounds. He did not have this money, so he had to borrow from his parents. He felt embarrassed and stressed.

His colleague Ana told him about emergency funds. An emergency fund is money that you save and keep safe for unexpected problems. Ana said that most financial experts recommend saving between three and six months of living expenses. Pedro thought this sounded like a lot, but Ana explained that it was possible to build it slowly.

Pedro looked at his budget. He found that he was spending money on things he did not really need, like expensive coffees every morning and subscriptions he never used. He cancelled two subscriptions and started making coffee at home. This saved him about sixty pounds every month.

He opened a separate savings account and transferred sixty pounds into it on the first day of every month. He called this account "Emergency Only" so that he would not be tempted to spend it on other things.

After eight months, he had five hundred pounds in his emergency fund. The following year, his washing machine stopped working and he needed to buy a new one. This time, he paid for it himself without any stress. He felt proud and much more secure about his financial situation.

Starting Over in Manchester (B1) · general / life changes

Fuente: `supabase/seeds_stories.sql`

When Clara accepted a job offer in Manchester, she had exactly three weeks to pack up her life in Madrid and move to a city she had visited only once, briefly, during a rainy November. Her Spanish friends thought she was brave. Her mother thought she was mad.

The first weeks were genuinely difficult. Manchester was greyer and quieter than Madrid, and the pace of social life felt completely different. In Spain, people went out late and stayed out later. Here, restaurants began clearing tables by half past nine. She missed the noise, the warmth, and the particular energy of a Spanish summer evening.

Finding her feet took patience. She joined a running club that met every Tuesday and Thursday morning in Heaton Park. At first, she went purely for the exercise, but she quickly realised that it was also an easy way to meet people who were already in a routine. Her running pace was mediocre, but her willingness to chat was excellent.

She also discovered that Manchester had a music scene of remarkable depth and variety. The city had a proud musical heritage — The Smiths, Oasis, Joy Division — and that legacy had created a culture that took music seriously. She began visiting small venues on weekends and found herself in conversations she had not expected to have.

Six months after arriving, Clara sat in a café near her flat and wrote her mother a long message. She described the running club, her new colleagues, and a gig she had been to the previous night. She ended the message by saying that she was not sure Manchester was quite home yet, but that she was beginning to feel, at last, that it could be.
